Do I need backup power for a Bess auxiliary load?

For certain projects, backup power must be provided for the BESS auxiliary load as required by the BESS supplier or fire codes. Some BESS suppliers mandate uninterrupted power to maintain the operation of thermal management systems, ensuring battery temperatures remain within desired limits to minimize degradation.

Who is responsible for the electricity costs associated with Bess auxiliary loads?

Project owners are also responsible for the electricity costs associated with the BESS auxiliary load during operation. The electricity cost for auxiliary loads depends on the energy consumption (kWh) and the pricing structure set by independent system operators or utilities. For example:.

What if a Bess product does not meet backup power requirements?

If a BESS product cannot meet these backup power requirements as mandated by the code or the Authority Having Jurisdiction (AHJ), an external backup power source needs to be provided. Options for backup power include local distribution network feeders (if available with sufficient kVA rating) or backup generators.

What is a Bess system & why is it important?

These systems are critical for utilities, data centers, and industry. For residential customers, whole-house solar batteries and small-scale BESS units provide self-consumption, outage protection, and participation in emerging virtual power plants (VPPs).

Why should you choose Polarium Bess?

Safety and efficiency are at the core of Polarium BESS. The system features small, cylindrical battery cells with excellent cooling capabilities, ensuring high safety standards. Developed and monitored in the EU, it meets strict regulatory requirements while keeping data secure.
